

AIChE®

Supporters of the 2014 Chevron SACHE Faculty Workshop

Dear Faculty Attendees:

Please note that financial support was received from the following organizations for the workshop. Some organizations seek talented chemical engineering students with the hope that they will have an interest in process safety. Please feel free to send this document to any graduating chemical engineering senior.

Ron Willey, 8/11/2014

AIChE-CCPS-SACHE – Significant funds for this workshop came from the Center for Chemical Process Safety of the AIChE. Education in process safety is one of their missions. Over 150 companies are members of the CCPS. Please encourage your students to join AIChE and if they get involved with process safety, will make them aware that the AIChE offers many will opportunities for self-improvement. www.aiche.org/

Chevron was our host in 2014. They put considerable resources, financially and human into making the workshop a success. Their recruitment portal is: <http://careers.chevron.com/>

Dow chemical has support every faculty workshop since 1998 in a very big way. Their recruitment portal is: <http://www.dow.com/careers/>

BASF is another longtime supporter of the faculty workshop being the original hosts in 1990. Their recruitment portal is: <http://www.basf.com/group/corporate/en/careers/index?mid=0>

SABIC has sponsored the last two faculty workshops. Dr. Douglas Lenz is willing to assist students with employment with opportunities in SABIC and request that his name be added as a reference in the employment application. <http://www.sabic.com/corporate/en/careers/americas/job-vacancies/vacancies>

Dow Corning has supported several faculty workshops over the years. For their recruiting website use the following web link: <http://www.dowcorning.com/content/careers/default.aspx?WT.svl=1> ioMosaic is a very large consultant firm specializing the field of Process Safety. Their offices are located across in Minneapolis, MN; Houston, TX; and Salem, NH. See <http://www.iomosaic.com/corporate/career.aspx>